DETAILED ACTION

1. Claim 1, 2, 5, 12-14, and 16-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Siegel (4192365). Siegel teaches a organizer having casing with an organizer pocket 44 having a exterior surface on which first attachment means 42 is mounted, an organizer flap 30 extending from the casing over the pocket having second attachment 40, Siegel teaches an ancillary article (fig. 5) having a body a flap 134 extending from the body having third and four attachment means (the two portions of 135). It is noted that the term complementary is broad. The term is simply means exchangeable. Thus, the third attachment (the male portion) is complementary to the first attachment means, and the fourth attachment (the female portion) is complementary to the second attachment means independently. It is noted that the claims do not recite the position where the various attachment means are engaged.

Furthermore, it is noted that the term "adapted" is an intended use. The various attachments on the organizer and the pocket can be used in the intended manner.

Regarding claim 2, the term "loose leaf binder" does not impart any structure over the purse in Siegel. The claim or the specification does not specify what structure is required by the claimed binder.

2. Claims 15 and 20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
